Pentecost

Today we keep another great feast, that of Pentecost, when we remember the coming of the Holy Spirit upon the Apostles. Fifty days ago we celebrated Easter and during that time we have been hearing about the risen Jesus's appearances to his disciples. Jesus has now returned to the Father (as we reflected upon last week when we explored the meaning of the Ascension of the Lord). Now Jesus fulfills his earlier promise that "the Advocate, the Holy Spirit" will be sent to the disciples (John 14: 15-31). The feast of Pentecost concludes the fifty days of our season of Easter. In fact, the word "Pentecost" comes from an ancient Greek word "pente-koste", meaning fifty days. Well, all of this is fine and good, but what exactly do we celebrate today...?

The feast of Pentecost, like so many of our feast days and prayers, actually has its roots in a Jewish celebration, namely that of the "first fruits" or "the weeks". This important feast was celebrated some seven weeks after the Sabbath of the Passover. It was a time to give thanks to God for the first fruits of the spring harvest and so to renew the covenant or relationship between God and His people. This gives a clue to many of the things that we celebrate today; especially if we look again at our readings, hymns and prayers at the Mass for Pentecost.

On the day of Pentecost, the apostles were renewed and, in fact, changed in their relationship with God. Before the Holy Spirit came upon them, they were weak and frightened men, cowering in the upper room in fear (as we are told at the beginning of our First Reading in Acts 2: 1-11). After they had received the Holy Spirit they were strengthened and became bold and powerful witnesses to the risen Jesus. In this sense, Pentecost is called "the birthday of the Church." They received not the first fruits of the spring harvest, but rather the fruits or gifts of the Holy Spirit: wisdom and understanding, right judgment and courage, knowledge and reverence, wonder and awe. This giving of the gifts of the Holy Spirit is continued in the church through every generation and place seen, above all, in the sacrament of Confirmation.

The Gospel also tells us that the apostles also received the authority to become special instruments of God's love and mercy as the Holy Spirit is breathed upon them (John 20: 19-23). This also is continued in the Church through the sacrament of ordination. Those who are to be ordained are literally ordered (that is both changed in their very being and also commanded) to be ministers of that same love and mercy through their leadership, their teaching and preaching and through the celebration of the sacraments.

This radical renewal of relationships extends even further. We can notice, for example, how when Peter preaches on the day of Pentecost, each person present understands him in his or her own language. In other words, the division that can be caused by all the different languages spoken in our world (as we hear in the story of the Tower of Babel in Genesis 11: 1-9) is now overcome by the one message and one language of Jesus Christ. After all, the Holy Spirit is often called the "bond of love" or the "Spirit of unity". So, today, with this wonderful feast of Pentecost, we also celebrate the unity that following Jesus and having faith in him can bring: we are indeed one family, brothers and sisters, in Jesus Christ.

As our season of Easter comes to its close, let us give thanks for the first fruits or the gifts of the Holy Spirit that we have received. It is a good time to renew our appreciation of those seven gifts of the Holy Spirit and also to realize, once again, that these gifts are given to us to be shared with others. All of us have received that mission, or even commission, to preach the Gospel. We often do this simply by trying to live and to witness to our faith in the everyday events and encounters that make up our daily life. Let us, like the apostles, not cower in some upper room, but rather boldly go out and witness to our faith. As we prepare for the Diocesan Eucharistic Congress and continue the Perpetual Adoration Chapel Project, we can remember that spending some time in adoration and prayer before the blessed Sacrament can help to renew all these gifts of the Holy Spirit within us. Finally, let us remember once again, those who were recently confirmed, their sponsors and their families in our prayers.

True, Our Lord hears our prayers anywhere, for He has made the promise, 'Ask, and you shall receive,' but He has revealed to His servants that those who visit Him in the Blessed Sacrament will obtain a more abundant measure of grace." - St. Alphonsus Liguori

Would you spend one hour in adoration for all the needs of our Church?
